LeadingAge is a nonprofit organization dedicated to supporting and advocating for nonprofit aging services in the United States. It represents a network of organizations that provide housing, healthcare, and community-based services for older adults. The organization focuses on promoting quality care, innovation in aging services, and policies that improve the lives of seniors. LeadingAge offers resources, education, and networking opportunities to its members, helping them adapt to the evolving needs of the aging population. The organization also engages in advocacy efforts to influence legislation and public policy related to aging services.
